DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of Group III in the reply filed on 6/9/2010 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that there is no search burden on the examiner. This is not found persuasive because the instant application is a national stage entry of a PCT application to which the lack of unity standard is applied and not restriction practice as set forth in 37 CFR 1.141-1.146. See MPEP 1893.03(d).

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-11 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over JP'086 (JP2001-179086). All references are to the provided machine translation.

In regard to claims 8 and 9, JP'086 teaches using silica in a recording sheet (inkjet recording media and also considered a sanitary article). See abstract. Also there is disclosure of materials containing a synthetic resin. See [0038]. The silica has the following properties:

Pore size: 10-35 nm (Example 1 = 15 nm)

Particle size: 0.02-10 microns (Example 1 = 6.7 microns)

Surface area: 400-1400 m²/g (Example 1 = 530 m²/g)

Pore volume: 1-4 cc/g (Example 1 = 1.13 cc/g)

d peak value of 14.7 nm in Example 1 (no other peak is mentioned)

Though the hexagonal pore structure is not mentioned (and other properties required by claims 10-11), the known properties of the silica in JP'086 are the same as that claimed and thus other properties must also be the same. Further, the method of making the product of JP'086 is the same as that described in the instant application as producing the desired product. In particular, JP'086 teaches a template process as is described in the instant application. See and compare [0009]-[0013] and the Examples of JP'086 with [0084]-[0098] of the instant specification. See also MPEP 2112.01.

In regard to claim 13, JP'086 teaches a content of 10% or more (10~100%). See [0017].

Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP'086.

In regard to claim 14, JP'086 teaches 10% or more. See [0017]. Overlapping ranges are prima facie obviousness. See MPEP 2144.05.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 12 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The closest prior art of record (JP'086) does not teach or suggest the silica disclosed therein in combination with a polyglycerol fatty acid ester obtained by esterification of a polyglycerol having an average degree of polymerization of 3 or more and a fatty acid. Instead JP'086 teaches a method of use in a recording sheet which does not contain said polyglycerol fatty acid ester in combination with a fatty acid.
